

*This is my friend Shaz.
She's twenty eight, runs her own company and can do the splits after half a bottle of pinot.*

*This is my doctor friend Ben.
He's probably saved over seventy lives but can't cook to save his own.*

This is my friend Jess. She spends all her time working for charities and is independently wealthy thanks to the untimely demise of a husband that none of us really liked anyway. I know it's bad to say that but it's true.

KIWI'S ARE SHY...

Both the birds and the people. It's amazing given our natural bashfulness that we find romance at all!

www.checkoutmyfriend.co.nz, New Zealand's newest and coolest online dating space, is removing the cringe factor from online dating.

We're different because Check out my friend is where friends introduce, talk-up and set-up their single friends online. All the members here are special because everyone's profile is written by a friend. This takes away the embarrassment of self promotion (let's face it we're not really into that!).

Have a single friend? Keen to be their virtual wingman? Then let New Zealand check out your fantastic mate and sign them up.

You the single one? Maybe not for long! Sign up yourself. You just need to nominate a trusty friend to describe you. You get to approve the description and photos before it goes online. Let's face it our friends are the best people to brag about us.

It's quick and painless so get to it!
